

PATRICK DUNBAR

Awarded the 2012

Bulkley Valley Research Centre's Irving Fox Memorial Scholarship for Natural Resources
Research and Management

Patrick Dunbar has completed one year of general sciences at the University of Victoria. For the 2011-2012 academic year he will attend UVIC again to study Geoscience. The UVIC geoscience program combines earth sciences with geography, focusing on geology and geomorphology, hydrology, GIS and remote sensing, and environmental management.

Patrick has lived in Telkwa his entire life where the outdoors have played a large part in his personal growth, learning, and interests. The recreational opportunities in the area have allowed him to appreciate the mountains and the natural world. He often enjoys hiking, mountain biking, and backcountry skiing around the Bulkley Valley. Patrick has worked as a summer student at Protech Forest Resources in Telkwa for two years, which has fostered an interest in working outside and preserving natural resources. He intends to follow a career path, not necessarily in forestry, but in a similar field.
