

CARL JEFFERIES

Awarded the 2020 Irving Fox Memorial Scholarship for Natural Resources Research and Management

Carl is a Smithers resident who has been living and working in the Bulkley Valley for the last 5 years. He has been working in the field of forestry across industry, consulting, and for the Province of BC.

Carl is now pursuing a Master of Science degree at the University of Northern British Columbia in the Natural Resources and Environmental Studies Graduate Program. The proposed research will explore landscape characteristics that promote ungulate populations by identifying anthropogenic influences on habitat quality and moose health.

He hopes his research will inform management that promotes moose health through government and stakeholder collaboration. Carl is interested in participating in projects that range in scope, goals, and implementation. He is looking to build relationships and contribute to the management and conservation of wildlife populations, particularly with the ongoing Provincial moose research program.

He is excited about the opportunity to integrate his knowledge of forest resource management with the implementation of wildlife conservation, restoration, and enhancement.
